Speaker(s):
Serena Ehrlich

Over the last 20 years, Serena Ehrlich has worked closely with public and private companies providing guidance on investor and public relation trends. Serena has implemented local, national and international social media and marketing campaigns for a wide range of company and brands including Mogreet, LuxuryLink, Viking River Cruises, the unincorporated city of Marina del Rey, Kraft, Kohl's, Avon, Mattel and more.

Serena started her career in advertising where she developed an understanding of branding from a large-scale perspective, but it was her 14 years in the newswire industry that placed her squarely at the forefront of a technical, sociological and influential revolution changing the face of customer communications. In 1994, Serena was part of the Business Wire team who introduced the communications industry to the Internet via a series of first-ever conferences, Her love of technology based communications hasn't stopped since.

As the director of social and evolving media at Business Wire, Serena creates products, services and provides unique insight in the content lifestyle - from creation to consumption to Business Wire's customers. In addition, Serena serves as the Corporate Secretary of the international Social Media Club board of directors, President of Social Media Club Los Angeles, as well as an Communications VP of the National Investor Relations Institutes' Los Angeles chapter and is a frequent speaker at local and national Social Marketing related events. She can be found on Twitter (@serena) as well as a wide range of emerging platforms.
